

South Carolina Higher Education Hall of Fame

Selection Criteria

The purpose of the South Carolina Higher Education Hall of Fame is to recognize and honor individuals for outstanding achievement on behalf of higher education in South Carolina. The Hall of Fame is sponsored by the Harry M. Lightsey Jr. Society. By recognizing these individuals, the Lightsey Society hopes to inspire others to excel in their efforts to advance higher education in South Carolina.

The collaborative effort involved in nominating and selecting inductees should help strengthen and build ties between the various institutions of higher education in South Carolina and broaden the base of support for higher education in the state.

To be eligible for induction into the Hall of Fame, individuals must have performed outstanding meritorious service to higher education in South Carolina above and beyond financial contributions. In particular, candidates (who may be either living or deceased) will be considered for induction based on the five qualities listed below:

1. Achievement. Has brought about significant events or substantive improvements in higher education in South Carolina or contributed to the enhancement of higher education in the state through exemplary services or acts.
2. Ethics. Has demonstrated the highest level of professional integrity and responsibility in all endeavors.
3. Leadership. Has had a substantial influence on promoting and improving higher education in South Carolina.
4. Passion. Has dedicated a major portion of his or her professional career to serving higher education in South Carolina.
5. Reputation. Has gained a high level of respect within the higher education community for his or her contributions to higher education in South Carolina.
